

Want to do something about climate change?

COIN learnt a lot from our first round of Action Groups, a number of which are still operating in Oxford. Having collated our experiences from 2006, we are launching a new round of Action Groups for 2007!

Do you want to join together with like-minded people, expand your knowledge of climate change, explore your mutual interests and take constructive action to deal with the problem?

If so - then you should come along to COIN's Action Group "matchmaking meeting", to be held on Tuesday June 26th, 6.30 - 9 pm, in Oxford Town Hall. Facilitated by COIN, this meeting will enable you to find people with similar interests to you - and help you form into groups to take real, positive action.

Action Group participants are expected to commit to regular monthly meetings - and we will meet back together again at the end of the year to collate our experiences and discuss what we have learnt.

For further information, or to book your place at the matchmaking meeting (reservations are ESSENTIAL) - , emma@coinet.org.uk, or visit www.coinet.org.uk/projects/action_groups
